

WRIT 356 (50): Writing Humor, Spring, 22

- Suzanne was a wonderful instructor you tell she carried about her students. She was easy to get in contact with and responded quickly. She a lot of fun speakers that came to the class. Each assignment she gave was fun. Especially the challenge piece. I really liked the bead idea I thought that was neat. I would definitely take another course from her. She was very nice and fun!!!
- Suzanne is an excellent instructor. She is understanding and has high knowledge of the subject she teaches. She provides helpful feedback with each assignment turned in. Suzanne also makes it apparent that she available for those who need help.
- So much enthusiasm and knowledge. Wonderful.

Ms. Nielson is a fine instructor. She gives "just enough" guidance to allow writers to write and then after the draft gives forth good criticism so that the writing can be improved. I gained a clear understanding of the different types of humor and feel like I will be successful in writing humor in the future.

- This is my third writing course and I loved every minute of it. We had live speakers or comedians almost every week. Before taking this course I had no idea of the various types of comedy. This has been an eye-opening course and I'm glad I was a part of it.

WRIT 300 (50): Creative Writers, Identity and Race in the Twin Cities

- I think that the second text required for the course could have been better incorporated in the class/used more. We weren't really required to read anything out of it.
- Great professor who clearly cared about the subject matter. Suzanne implored us to think critically about the subject of social inequities and gave us the time and space to share in a way that benefitted from a diverse group of students.
- Suzanne was an amazing instructor. This course was one that I was quite nervous about but Suzanne was so helpful and understanding. I ended up loving this course more than I thought I would. It was truly amazing.
- Hey Suzanne, I enjoy the course. It was indeed really good, and I enjoyed everyone's workshops and their responses towards each others and mine. I hope to see you in the later future.
